

Staffing

We have begun hiring season. The science learning area and I conducted interviews for our open science position right after April vacation and hope to have the position filled soon.

We will be discussing next steps for filling the teaching position in our alternative program, D-Path. With Jason Thornton moving on in his career, we will take the opportunity to step back, assess the program and decide our next steps.

Curriculum and Instruction and Professional Development

With the elimination of early release time, our curriculum work has slowed to a standstill.

Our teachers prepared for the grading of the sophomore and senior projects during our Celebration of Learning days. Faculty reviewed the rubrics and practiced scoring together to ensure that we score the projects as consistently as possible. Several students presented early during a Wednesday meeting so teachers could meet and discuss the rubrics. Elaine Fryda, Senior Roundtable coordinator, and Michael Hayashida, Sophomore Roundtable coordinator, organized these trainings. One of our remaining Wednesday meetings will be dedicated to scoring the projects of students who did not meet the standard on their first try.

Other remaining Wednesday meetings will be dedicated to reflecting on both our committee work, our Roundtable instruction and identifying next steps in our curriculum work
